PRESIDENT ISSUES APPEAL TO AID COLORADO FLOOD SUFFERERS.

Bedford Red Cross Will Receive Contributions.

President Harding has appealed to the people of the United States to assist by contributions the American Red Cross in aiding the people of Pueblo, Col. and surrounding territory visited by the flood. The appeal is as follows:

"To the people of the United States: 'Overwhelming disaster has come to the people of Pueblo and surrounding districts. Realization of their sufferings now and in the days to come prompts me to issue an urgent request to all whose sympathies are awakened to assist the labors of the American Red Cross, which has quickly organized to deal with the first great need and will stand by until homes and home life can be re-established. Contributions may be sent at once through the office of any chapter, or directly to Red Cross headquarters at Washington, for use in the stricken territory.

Warren G. Harding.

In response to this appeal the Bedford County Chapter of the American Red Cross has subscribed $100.00 and the Junior Red Cross $25.00. The people of Bedford County are earnestly requested to send their contributions at a very early date to the Red Cross, Barnett Building, Bedford, making all checks payable to B. F. Madore, Treas. The people of Pueblo are our neighbors in distress and our contributions should be liberal. The funds contributed will be forwarded promptly to Red Cross Headquarters at Washington.

Mrs. Sarah Mower.

Mrs. Sarah Mower, who was, perhaps, the oldest woman in Rainsburg, died at her home on Sunday evening, June 5, 1921, between five and six o'clock, aged 82 years. She was united in marriage with John H. Mower, who preceded her to the grave about nine years ago. She was the mother of six children, three of whom are still living, two sons and one daughter; namely, Mrs. Minnie Smith, Frank and Alden, all living in Rainsburg. For some fifty or sixty years she was a communicant of the M. E. church, of that place. "Aunt Sallie", as most everyone called her, will be greatly missed by the people of that community. She was a friend to all, met everyone with a smile and kind word, always trying to comfort and cheer the sick and suffering and those who were in trouble. She has always been loved and respected by all who knew her.

REPUBLICANS PREPARE CONGRESSIONAL DRIVE

Reports That Groups That Made Up Harding Majority Are Uneasy

Washington, June 7.—There is going to be no political recess. As soon as the Republican National Committee gets through its scheduled job of selecting John T. Adams as Chairman and Ralph Williams as Vice President, and settles its programme for representation from the South, it is going to work on the Congressional campaign, through that election is a year and a half away.

The Republicans have begun hearing from the country and what they have heard is not reassuring. The various groups that made up the spectacular Harding majority are getting uneasy. The German-Americans have seen no sign of the particular favor they were led to expect. The Irish-Americans see no sign of recognition of the Irish Republic, and are looking askance at he hands across-the-sea-business, voiced by Ambassador Harvey and carried on in the President's letters.

Labor sees no sign of the millennium, capital is still waiting for a demonstration of the "less government in business and more business in government" policy that has been promised. There is no promptitude in the soldier bonus legislation, and even the pledge of peace with Germany" as quick as a Republican Congress can pass a resolution for a Republican President to sign," loiters.

The Republican chiefs propose to take this situation in hand before it becomes acute.

The negro problem in the South is giving the Republicans real worry. They want to cut down southern representation in the national conventions without offending the voting negroes of doubtful States in the North, East and West.

WINNERS IN JUDGING CONTEST

Gordon Hull, Schellsburg, Katherine Seese, New Paris and Harold Hoover, Snake Spring, were high score contestants in the Dairy Judging Contest held Friday, June 3rd, and will compose a team of three to represent Bedford County at State College during Farmer's Week. Keen competition for high score was manifested throughout the entire contest and the distinction was only won by putting forth best efforts.

Bedford and Blair Farm Bureaus joined in staging this contest, both groups meeting at Roaring Springs, at an early hour. From Roaring Springs by autos the first stop was made at the Farm of Blair Snobberger who has a fine herd of pure bred Holsteins. The cattle used for judging purposes represent high production breeding, one cow having a yearly record of over 13,000 lbs. of milk. From here the tour led to picnic grounds near McKee's Gap where "weeners", bacon, ice cream and strawberries as well as games were enjoyed. The Perry herd of purebred Guernseys also furnished high class breeding for the boys and girls to observe and judge. Both Snobbergers and Perrys treated the crowd to ice cream and cake which were well appreciated.

In all, the day was one of fun and instruction well mixed. The contestants did themselves proud and should show up well with other Counties in the State contest. Gordon Hull led all contestants in both Counties by a wide margin with 181 points out of a possible 200. Katherine Seese won second place with 166 points, just one third less than the highest Blair County score. Harold Hoover came third with 165 it will be remembered that Gordon Hull also won first prize in the judging contest at the Bedford Fair last fall and Harold Hoover also won a prize for his work at the fair. Other contestants who made high scores for Bedford county are: Rayford Wright, Juliet Barefoot, Owen Beckley, and Fern Nunemaker of Alum Bank; Charles Nunemaker, Rufe Nunemaker and Harry Suter of New Paris; J. Henry Baker of Snake Spring Valley; and John Markey and John Fisher of Woodbury.

CONGRESSIONAL COMOUFLAGE

Presidential Election Day being six months past—or forty-two months ahead—the House Republican leaders have suddenly discovered that the President has some proper powers in international matters.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs has drawn up a resolution authorizing him to call an international conference to consider the limitation of armaments," and appropriating $100,000 for expenses.

A cynical maxim of American Legislatures runs: Give the people what they want—but have the two Houses deadlock on the bill." Even in the austere atmosphere of the national capital lobbyists are not unknown who whisper this counsel; nor are legislators who act upon it. The advocates of peace may well be on their guard against interested men who seek to divert, if they cannot defeat, all efforts toward disarmament by inciting mock battles, of much dust and smoke but no slaughter, between the Senate and House over means and methods.

Of this danger to prosperity and peace, of this menace hanging over not only American pockets but the lives of American youth, of this reckless endangering of the very fate of civilization, Senator Borah gave on Friday timely warning. The Borah resolution calling for a naval conference between the United States, Japan and Great Britain does not go beyond what is immediately practicable. These three nations control the seas. They will still control the seas if they agree upon proportionally checking the disastrous race in naval armaments. They incur no danger in doing so. Public opinion in all three nations overwhelmingly favors such a step.

A genuine movement for general disarmament would be heartily welcome, but it would wear a very different form. The proper method for the United States to further the great boon has been pointed out by President Harding, in whose name this camouflage is daubed over the question by the Foreign Affairs Committee. It is to "engage under the existing treaty"—in a League of Nations whose beneficent purposes include disarmament. Needless to say, that is not the purpose of the House leaders. Their resolution is craftily drawn and will be sanctimoniously urged to confuse and delay decisions.

The people have the remedy in their own hands. They can build under Congress a fire so hot as to make it move. They can sweep aside excuses. They can disregard factitious differences and press forward for the main purpose on which humanity's heart is set. They can demand action. And when they demand action they will get it, even from a Congress bent upon dodging and delay. Let the prompt passage of the Borah resolution be the test of Washington sincerity. Let us see whether the government serves or defies the American people.

TWO SETS TWINS IN BEDFORD IN ONE DAY

All Doing Fine

Tuesday was a gala day for Bedford. Two sets of twins arrived on that day. One set both boys came to Ross Brown's, proprietor of The Motor Supply Co., and the other set both boys too, came to W. I. Wolfe's, proprietor of the A. & P. Tea Store.

Bedford hasn't been wrought up so much in twenty years. M. W. Corle's twins were the last, and are about three years old, and the set previous to them are Ross Diehl's about four years old. The Diehl and Corle twins are all girls, so the late arrivals even up, which follows up the laws of nature, fifty-fifty.

LARGEST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION EVER HELD

One of the largest and most inspiring County Sunday School Conventions in the history of Bedford County has passed into history, and as to whether the county as a whole will reap the benefits of the splendid information brought by the various program speakers will depend on them. Some of the Sunday Schools already have taken it up. Pastors, themselves on their themes on Sunday morning spoke of various parts of the program. Some other Sunday Schools called Workers' Meetings in the afternoon and started improvement along certain lines as suggested by the speakers and if all Sunday Schools in the county would follow up these suggestions and these improvements beginning right now, immense value would come from this county convention.

More than four hundred delegates were registered at the convention and the good people of Everett certainly did take care of the delegates and the entertaining part of the program in splendid shape.

Both of the evening sessions were overflow meetings, the Reformed church being packed to its full capacity and the Presbyterian church, where the overflow meeting was held, being also well filled and crowded. Everyone seemed happy. Many old friends met from various parts of the county and there seemed to be at this time that intermingling among the delegates and those present that has not existed to quite such an extent in the past.

From the very beginning of the program, commencing with the splendid conventional sermon preached by Rev. Eyer of Bedford and the devotionals conducted by Rev. Anderson of Saxton, clear through the program without exception the numbers were all of the highest order. Some changes were necessary in as much as Mr. John C. Silsley, of Greensburg was taken sick and his place was filled by Miss Lemen's a state worker from Philadelphia, who represents the Children's Department in the state association, and Mrs. Croyle of Everett was also on the sick list and could not be present to render his part. In the challenge that came from Rev. Van-Ormer that too many of us worked in Sunday School rather than play in it had many lessons worth while.

The Friday evening program in which Mr. George W. Penniman of Pittsburgh and Rev. Carl C. Rasmussen of Juniata, Pa., was an evening where two addresses astirring and of as high order as anyone would care to listen to or try to put into practice. Many of our local workers did themselves proud in the matter of splendidly prepared and very helpful addresses.

The music from beginning to end was inspiring. Something like 250 of the convention song books were sold and in use. Prof. Koontz was on hand always and added much to the success of the convention. His splendid Ladies' Orchestra should have had an auditorium four or five times as large as the one it had on Friday evening when they gave their entertainment.

The financial campaign this year was the biggest ever. They set out with a goal of a $1,000 and have just about reached that goal. Mr. Solomon the treasurer, has fixed the financial end of our association on a business basis such as it has not been before, working out a budget that we have looked up to, using that as a goal and working to reach that goal.

A number of schools in the county, of course, were not represented and it is the County Association's aim to try to get in touch with them to not only have them make an offering, but to try to interest them in the work of the county association.

Much honor and much praise is due to the county president who almost entirely worked out the program and secured speakers covering it and was honored again by re-election for another year. The old officers with two or three exceptions were re-elected. Mr. Carl Espenschade of Bedford was elected as superintendent of the O. A. B. C. Department in which line he is splendidly equipped and much interested and we feel that he is an excellent addition to the county association.

The county association was honored this time by having with them Mr. McCurdy of Lebanon county who was the first county president Bedford County Sabbath School Association ever had. Other of our county presidents, Mr. W. C. Linsinger of Bedford and Mr. M. H. Kramer of Hyndman, who find it hard to lay down the reins and who are still active in the work, were with us and rendered such help as was necessary.

With an inspiring convention such as this was there is no reason why if these ideas are put to practice at once, that Bedford County Sabbath Schools can not march forward and make rapid progress during the next year.

ANOTHER FINE IMPOSED

LESSON FOR JUNE 12

MAKING THE WORLD CHRISTIAN.
LESSON TEXT—Isa. 11:1-10, Acts 1:6-9
GOLDEN TEXT—The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Esther 4:
15-16, Psa. 33:12, Prov. 14:34.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Love for the World.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for
the World.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Helping to Make a Better World.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Christian Patriotism.

If by "Making the World Christian"
the lesson committee means the conversion of the world in this dispensation by the preaching of the gospel,
then we submit that they are in error,
leading the people into false hopes.
The main text chosen for our study pictures are the glorious coming age when Christ shall reign over the whole earth. Before this will take place Christ shall come in person and destroy the works of the devil and bind him and cast him into the pit (Rev.
19:11-21; II Thess. 2:3-10).

I. J. The Reign of Messiah the King
(Isa. 11:1-12).

1. Messiah's lineage (v. 1). It was to be of David's line—royal stock. A rod or twig was to come out of Jesse,
which indicates that the royal house
was in a depressed state.

2. Messiah's qualification (v. 2). (1)
The Spirit of the Lord, that is, a divine person proceeding from the Father and Son. (2) Spirit of wisdom, giving insight into all things human and divine. (3) Spirit of understanding, that is, to choose that which is highest and best. (4) Spirit of counsel, that is, the ability to make plans. (5) Spirit of might, that is,
the ability to execute His plans. (6) Spirit of knowledge, that is, the ability to perceive the will of God in all things. (7) The fear of the Lord, that is, reverential and obedient fear.

3. The character of Messiah (vv. 3-5).
(1) Quick to understand goodness
(v. 3). (2) He shall not judge after external appearances (v. 3). (3) Shall not decide upon hearsay (v. 3). Each case shall be decided upon on the basis of absolute and perfect knowledge. (4) He shall defend and avenge
the poor and meek of the earth (v. 4).
The meek shall inherit the earth when Messiah reigns (Matt. 5:5). (5) Shall smite the earth (v. 4). Those whom He smites are the ungodly inhabitants who are then in federation against Christ. The head of this federation is the Antichrist (2 Thess. 2:8). (6)
He shall have a zeal for justice and truth (v. 5).

4. Universal peace (vv. 6-8). This is a picture of the glorious golden age of which poets have sung and for which the wise men of all ages have longed and looked. There will then be peace not only between men, but between animals. This peace and harmony is shown in that in each change suggested each animal is coupled with its natural prey. (1)
The wolf shall dwell with the lamb
(v. 6). "Dwell" means intimacy, as if the lamb should receive the wolf into its home. The only place and circumstance at present in which the wolf and lamb dwell together is when the lamb is inside the wolf. (2) The leopard shall lie down with the kid (v. 6). (3) The calf, young lion, and failing shall be together (v. 6). They are so gentle and peaceable that a little child can lead them. (4) The cow and the bear shall feed together
(v. 7). (5) The lion shall eat straw
(v. 7), no longer flesh. (6) The suckling child shall play on the hole of the asp (v. 8). The most venomous serpent shall not harm little children.
This blessed condition shall prevail over the whole earth (v. 9).

5. All nations shall gather unto him
(vv. 10-12). The glorious reign of Christ shall attract the Gentile nations. This is the full purpose of the kingdom, namely, to attract the nations of the earth to Jesus Christ.

II. The Supreme Obligation of Believers in This Age (Acts 1:8-9). While we are not responsible for bringing in the kingdom, we are under solemn obligation to witness of the salvation which is graciously provided for all who will believe on Christ.

1. The disciples' question (v. 6).
They were perplexed as to the time of the kingdom's establishment. They were right in the expectation of the kingdom, but were still in darkness as to the real purpose of God in calling the church.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 7, 8). He turned their attention from the desire to know times and seasons, which belong to God, to their supreme duty.
They were to be witnesses of Christ
to the uttermost parts of the earth,
beginning at Jerusalem.

The Gleanings.

When ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest.
Thou shalt leave them for the poor, and stranger. I am the Lord, your God.—Leviticus 19:9, 10.

Walketh in Darkness.

He that hateth his brother is in darkness and walketh in darkness and knoweth not whither he goeth,
because that darkness hath blinded
his eyes.—I John 2:11

Flat Feet.

Symptoms of flat foot are pain
along the instep or even in the calves of the legs, knees, thighs, hips or back, often mistaken for rheumatism or other troubles. The person stands with feet well apart and toes turned outward. The ankle bends inward and the weight falls on the inner line of the foot so that the entire sole rests flat on the ground.

Danger in Incandescent Lamps.
Evidence that the high-power incandescent lamps now so commonly used for street lighting may not be wholly innocent as a possible source of fire was observed in southern California recently, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A bulb hanging 20 feet above the ground suddenly burst and the white-hot particles of metal it scattered instantly ignited the dry grass at the foot of the pole. Fire wardens of the district are now advocating the use of suitable guards about the lamps.

A POPULAR VERDICT BASED ON EVIDENCE OF BEDFORD PEOPLE

Grateful thousands tell it—
If weak backs made strong—
Of weak kidneys made well.
Urinary disorder corrected.
Bedford people add their testimony.

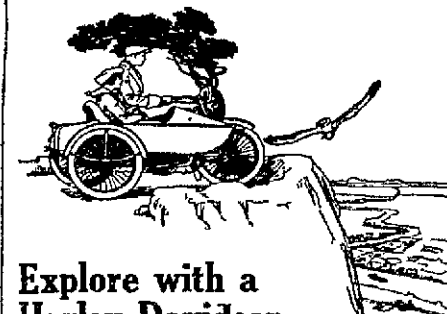

They praise Doan's Kidney Pills. Bedford evidence is now complete. Bedford testimony is confirmed; Repents of early relief substantiated.

Merit doubly proved by test of time.

Let a Bedford citizen speak. Mrs. Martha Davidson, 357 W. Pitt St., says: "I was very nervous and had severe headaches. My back ached constantly and the least bit of work tired me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I decided to give them a trial and got a box at Heckerman's Drug Store. In every way they acted just as represented and gave me prompt relief."

OVER SIX YEARS LATER, Mrs. Davidson said: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills once in a while since first endorsing them and they have kept me in good health."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Davidson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

New Fishing Methods.

A Lamont man who is charged with having taken a fish from a private fish pond declares the fish were so tame that one of them was eating out of his hand, and he simply closed his fingers on it and carried it away. Coloring Arc-Lamp Globes.

The purple color of arc-lamp globes is due to the use of manganese in the glass. The manganese is used to counteract the greenish color which comes from ferrous salts in the glass, but the action of light on the manganese only substitutes a purple coloration for a greenish hue.

LESSON FOR JUNE 12

MAKING THE WORLD CHRISTIAN.
LESSON TEXT—Isa. 11:1-10; Acts 1:6-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—The earth shall be
full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the
waters cover the sea.—Isa. 11:9.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Esterh 4:
15-16, Psa. 33:12; Prov. 14:34.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Love for the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for
the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC
—Helping to Make a Better World.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
—Christian Patriotism.

If by "Making the World Christian" the lesson committee means the conversion of the world in this dispensation by the preaching of the gospel, then we submit that they are in error, leading the people into false hopes. The main text chosen for our study pictures are the glorious coming age when Christ shall reign over the whole earth. Before this will take place Christ shall come in person and destroy the works of the devil and bind him and cast him into the pit (Rev. 19:11-21; II Thess. 2:3-10).

1. The Reign of Messiah the King (Isa. 11:1-12).

1. Messiah's lineage (v. 1). It was to be of David's line—royal stock. A rod or twig was to come out of Jesse, which indicates that the royal house was in a depressed state.

2. Messiah's qualification (v. 2). (1) The Spirit of the Lord, that is, a divine person proceeding from the Father and Son. (2) Spirit of wisdom, giving insight into all things human and divine. (3) Spirit of understanding, that is, to choose that which is highest and best. (4) Spirit of counsel, that is, the ability to make plans. (5) Spirit of might, that is, the ability to execute His plans. (6) Spirit of knowledge, that is, the ability to perceive the will of God in all things. (7) The fear of the Lord, that is, reverential and obedient fear.

3. The character of Messiah (vv. 3-5). (1) Quick to understand goodness (v. 3). (2) He shall not judge after external appearances (v. 3). (3) Shall not decide upon hearsay (v. 3). Each case shall be decided upon on the basis of absolute and perfect knowledge. (4) He shall defend and avenge the poor and meek of the earth (v. 4). The meek shall inherit the earth when Messiah reigns (Matt. 5:5). (5) Shall smite the earth (v. 4). Those whom He smites are the ungodly inhabitants who are then in federation against Christ. The head of this federation is the Antichrist (2 Thess. 2:8). (6) He shall have a zeal for justice and truth (v. 5).

4. Universal peace (vv. 6-9). This is a picture of the glorious golden age of which poets have sung and for which the wise men of all ages have longed and looked. There will then be peace not only between men, but between animals. This peace and harmony is shown in that in each change suggested each animal is coupled with its natural prey. (1) The wolf shall dwell with the lamb (v. 6). "Dwell" means intimacy, as if the lamb should receive the wolf into its home. The only place and circumstance at present in which the wolf and lamb dwell together is when the lamb is inside the wolf. (2) The leopard shall lie down with the kid (v. 6). (3) The calf, young lion, and fatted shall be together (v. 6). They are so gentle and peaceable that a little child can lead them. (4) The cow and the bear shall feed together (v. 7). (5) The lion shall eat straw (v. 7), no longer flesh. (6) The sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp (v. 8). The most venomous serpent shall not harm little children. This blessed condition shall prevail over the whole earth (v. 9).

5. All nations shall gather unto him (vv. 10-12). The glorious reign of Christ shall attract the Gentile nations. This is the full purpose of the kingdom, namely, to attract the nations of the earth to Jesus Christ.

II. The Supreme Obligation of Believers in This Age (Acts 1:6-9). While we are not responsible for bringing in the kingdom, we are under solemn obligation to witness of the salvation which is graciously provided for all who will believe on Christ.

1. The disciples' question (v. 6). They were perplexed as to the time of the kingdom's establishment. They were right in the expectation of the kingdom, but were still in darkness as to the real purpose of God in calling the church.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 7, 8). He turned their attention from the desire to know times and seasons, which belong to God, to their supreme duty. They were to be witnesses of Christ to the uttermost parts of the earth, beginning at Jerusalem.

The Gleanings.

When ye reap the harvest of your land, then shall not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest. Thou shalt leave them for the poor, and stranger. I am the Lord, your God.—Leviticus 19:9, 10.

Walketh in Darkness.

He that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.—I John 2:11.

Beware of Apologizing.
Apologizing—a very desperate habit—one that is rarely cured. Apologizing is only egotism wrong side out. Nine times out of ten, the first thing a man's companion knows of his shortcomings is from his apology.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

WHEN GOVERNMENT IS NOT SO SIMPLE

After three months in the White House it would be interesting to know what Mr. Harding really thinks of his smug campaign dictum that "government is a very simple thing after all."

Mr. Harding has not found government a very simple thing in spite of his boasts as a candidate. Between the election and the inauguration he had four months in which in consultation with the celebrated "best minds" of the Republican Party, to work out a programme. Since inauguration he has had three months in which to develop the programme. Yet to-day nobody can put his finger on any policy of government and say with certainty that here the Administration stands.

During the campaign Mr. Harding glibly promised to declare peace at once with Germany, but the United States is still in the same technical state of war that it was when he was nominated. The Knox resolution decreeing a separate peace with Germany was amended by the Senate to conform to the Administration's wishes. Now the resolution has again been recast by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to conform to the Administration's later wishes, and there will be plenty of time for the President to change his mind a half dozen times more before the resolution is finally adopted by both branches of Congress.

During the campaign Mr. Harding aroused great enthusiasm among his simple, credulous Western audiences by telling them how the American troops would be brought back at once from Germany. The American troops are still on the Rhine. The Harding Administration has not lifted a finger to recall them and prefers not to talk about it.

Mr. Harding's famous association of nations is in the air along with his other foreign policies. One of the most enticing of campaign reports had to do with a mission to Europe on which Elihu Root was to be sent immediately after the inauguration. Eminent members of the Republican intelligentsia were to accompany him and the tangled skein of foreign affairs was to be straightened out at once. Mr. Root is still at home, and it is George Harvey who is representing the United States "unofficially" on the Supreme Council. So much for the passage of an entrancing myth.

Mr. Harding's Administration is no more huddled, however, in respect to foreign relations than in respect to domestic relations. The economy which the candidate used to talk about is non-existent. As an example of what it is not the Senate adds $100,000,000 more to the House appropriations for the navy, while the White House talks about the imperative need of saving money. The Republican New York Herald has shown there is no decrease in the actual expenditures of the Government. Taxes were to be reduced and simplified, but the Administration is still without a tax programme and as eager as anybody else to find out what it is going to do. As for the general prosperity of the country, of which the Republican Party is the special custodian, there were about 1,000,000 men out of work when Mr. Harding was elected. There are now 5,000,000 men out of work, and labor has undergone the most drastic liquidation of wages that it has ever known.

As the foreign trade of the country dwindles and the foreign markets disappear Congress can think of no better expedient than to increase the tariff and strangle what trade is left.

The Administration gives the appearance of great energy but it never gets anywhere. It never undertakes anything, and the Administration newspapers are now beginning to write apologetically about the extremely difficult problems that the President must solve. Of course they are difficult. They were difficult when Mr. Wilson was grappling with them and a hostile Republican Congress was obstructing every move. They remain difficult now that a Republican President is in the White House. The Republicans are not to blame because they have settled none of these complicated questions. Their guilt lies in the shameless campaign of malice, mendacity and misrepresentation that they conducted against Mr. Wilson when he was trying to settle them. Having deliberately deceived the country in order to gain power, they can hardly complain if they are reminded of their fraudulent claims and their demonstrated false pretenses.

"Government is a very simple thing after all" when Republican politicians were engaged in wrecking the Wilson Administration. It is not so simple a thing when a Republican administration is asked to redeem its campaign pledges.

MR. HARDING'S PLAN.

Mr. Harding's plan to prevent war is very simple, almost primitive. In explaining it at a dinner of the National League of Masonic Clubs in Washington the President said:

If the people of the earth can only understand each other, and if the men in authority can only face each other in speaking for the several peoples of the world, there will never be another conflict to block the progress of civilization. Rather than to contemplate a conflict I would rather sit at a table and settle it in advance.

This is a doctrine of wise and true statesmanship, but how is it to be carried into effect?

The only agency ever created to help peoples understand each other in their international affairs is the League of Nations and Mr. Harding denounces it as a super-government. The only organization in which "the men in authority" can face each other is the League of Nations, and Mr. Harding refuses to have anything to do with it. Rather than contemplate a conflict, Mr. Harding "would rather sit at a table and settle it in advance," but he declines to sit at the only table that the statesmanship of the world has ever provided for such discussion.

When the difficulty has arisen it may be too late to ask men to sit at a table. That was the experience of 1914. The day that the Austro-Hungarian Government sent its ultimatum to Serbia, Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister, suggested a four-power conference to avert war. Germany and Austria-Hungary refused. Russia began mobilization, Germany declared war, and ten days after Sir Edward Grey's suggestion was made the German troops were crossing the Belgian frontier.

Ten million human beings died in war, 5,000,000 more permanently disabled and $348,000,000,000 of the world's wealth was wiped out because there was no means in existence by which men in authority could be compelled to sit around a table and discuss the issues before resorting to force. When means were devised to meet this fatal defect in international relations Mr. Harding's party repudiated the covenant and Mr. Harding himself has officially declared that the United States will have nothing to do with these means.

It is said that the President still inclines toward an association that is based on the principle of The Hague Tribunal. All the machinery of The Hague was in existence the day that the ultimatum was sent to Serbia. It remained in existence throughout the war, idle and useless. Every Hague convention that the nations had ever signed was shot to pieces before the conflict ended.

Everything that Mr. Harding desires to do in the way of averting war is provided for in the covenant of the League of Nations that he has rejected, nor can the method that he suggests be carried into effect except through an international organization similar to that he is trying to destroy. Experience has proven that "the men in authority" will not face each other in times of crisis unless there is a tribunal which has power to summon them and which is backed by the opinion of the world. It must also be a tribunal whose summons cannot lightly be denied.

Unless Mr. Harding is prepared to go that far he can make no progress at all with his benevolent plan for preventing war, and if he goes that far he is to all intents and purposes at Geneva, no matter how stoutly he may insist that he is at The Hague.

PEOPLE OF OUR TOWN

Hats off to the Gloom Buster, who puts the kibosh on the Crepe Hanger. He radiates cheer like a Warm Cat dispenses purrs and laughs at worries that cause the Average Man's hair to curl. The Gloom Buster has a Good Word for Everybody and Everybody has a Good Word for him. What's More!

The Deadly Arrow.

A mounted Indian or white man with bow and arrows sometimes could kill more buffaloes than a man could kill with a rifle, says the American Forestry Magazine. At close range the arrow was as deadly as the bullet. It made less noise, and arrows could be discharged four times as rapidly as bullets from muzzle-loading guns.

Top of the United States.

An aerial view of the top of Mount Rainier, the 14,500-foot peak of Washington, was recently made. The aviator was forced to make an ascent of three miles to get the picture, and the photograph shows one of the now extinct volcano craters.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER MARK 50TH. WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Bowser, of Pleasantville, this county, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, having been married on June 4, 1871. The celebration, however, was held on Memorial Day, at the Bowser home, and all their children and 23 grandchildren were present. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bowser are enjoying good health. They were married near Alum Bank and later moved to the Chestnut Ridge farm, about one mile from that town, where they lived until ten years ago, selling then and locating in Pleasantville.

Mr. Bowser is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bowser and Mrs. Bowser a daughter of the late Daniel and Catharine Clark. At the golden wedding anniversary celebration Mr. Bowser was presented a gold watch and chain and Mrs. Bowser a gold ring and an oil range.

THE FARMER AS THE GOAT AGAIN.

Washington, D. C. June 9.—It is a Democrat, Senator King of Utah, who moves for an inquiry into the circumstances under which the Emergency Tariff Bill was enacted. But there are Republicans in the Senate who are moved the same way by similar considerations, and some of them, like Senator Moses of New Hampshire, spoke their minds plainly when the bill was going through Congress. It is the first "constructive" measure of the Harding Administration and is having anything but constructive consequences for party harmony.

This is not so much because the bill is a fake and a fraud in its pretensions of help to the farmer as because those pretensions are found to have been used to enact very actual and substantial help in the shape of a hard-and-fast monopoly for certain dyestuffs interests known to the Washington lobby as the "Dupont Circle." It is charged that contributions to Republican campaign funds explain how these dyestuffs interests managed to usurp from the farmers the only desirable place at this otherwise fraudulent protective tariff feast.

Thus, after all, it is the same old story of Republican tariff protection in relation to the farmer. He has been made to play again the part of the goat as in the fable of the fox in the well. The fox used to be the beneficiaries of the tariff on woolsens and so on, and the goat never failed at their specious pleading promptly to jump into the well and enable the fox to climb out by making a footstool of his back. Now the "Dupont Circle" of dyestuffs interests have been permitted emergently to take the place of the fox on the premises that the latter will be allowed to resume his old game in the Permanent Tariff Bill.

The Republican politicians at Washington are not worrying about what the farmer will do on discovering this particular fraud against him. It is other possible consequences of the scandal which trouble them. The farmer has repeatedly proved in the past his fidelity to the role of the goat in this tariff play and can be relied on to enact the part again without a kick.

EVERY BODY SEES A CHANGE IN FATHER

Grateful Son Says His Father Looks Like a Different Man Since Taking Tanlac.

"My Father has suffered from chronic stomach trouble for over twenty years and has paid out thousands of dollars for medicines and doctors," said G. W. Slayton, a well-known Cobb County farmer, living a short distance out of Atlanta, Ga.

"We tried nearly everything trying to cure him and he went off to the Springs, thinking maybe the water might help him but it just looked like nothing would reach his trouble. Then he tried digesting and lived on liquid food until he almost starved, but even that failed to do him any good and he just kept going from bad to worse."

"I don't guess there ever was a case as stubborn as his and if there ever was a confirmed dyspeptic, he would have been one yet if it hadn't been for this Tanlac."

"The first we heard of this medicine was when my Father saw an advertisement in the papers from parties he knew in Tennessee, who were friends of his and he knew what they said about it was the truth so he got it right away and began taking it. Well, sir, it acted just like magic—everybody noticed the change in Father. Why, he is just like a different man and sits down to the table and eats like a farm hand. Only yesterday he ate pork and turnips for his dinner and ate so much we were actually afraid he was going to over-do the thing but he laughed and said nothing hurt him now and that he was hungry and expected to eat and make up for lost time."

"Now, when a medicine will do things like that I think people ought to know about it and I want to say right now that I would not give one bottle of Tanlac for all the other medicines and health resorts in the country put together."

PENNSYLVANIA
STATE ITEMS

Berwick.—The Berwick high school graduated the largest class in its history—67—the graduates receiving their diplomas before an audience of 2500 persons in Bower Memorial Evangelical church.

Harrisburg.—The Ulster Construction company, of Ulster, has received a contract for 1046 feet of reinforced concrete roadway, sixteen feet wide, at $11,440.45 in Ulster township, Bradford county.

Chester.—Climbing upon a picket fence to recover his base ball which lodged upon the roof of a shed at his home here, Frank Lupola, 6 years old, lost his balance and fell from the roof to the top of the fence, where he was impaled upon a picket that penetrated his abdomen. The boy was rescued by his father and hurried to the Chester hospital, where he lived but an hour after his admission.

Uniontown.—An injury to her spine, suffered several years ago, has resulted in the death of Miss Mary Frances Sherrick, aged 21, one of the city's most prominent young women. Miss Sherrick was engaged to be married to R. M. Beerbower, the wedding date being set for this month.

Hazleton.—The city school board decided to collect $5 per capita tax from all women 21 or more years old to make up the $24,000 lost through repeal of the occupation tax for school purposes. This levy is the maximum limit set by law and is the same as that imposed on men.

Chester.—Max Hurford returned from an errand and found the body of his wife dangling from a rope in the hallway of his home, 710 East Sixth street. The woman had committed suicide by using a piece of clothes line which she attached to the stairway.

Chester.—Following the discovery that thousands of dollars' worth of lumber were being hauled at night from the storage yards of Stacey G. Glauser & Son along the Delaware river front, at the foot of Central avenue, four arrests were made. Charles Benson, entangled in the net, a trusted watchman for the firm, was charged with selling the lumber, while others were John Smith, self-appointed assistant to Benson; Alexander Meredith, driver of a team used in hauling the material, and Oliver Riggs, an alleged buyer, who is erecting a number of small houses.

York.—A freight train on a grade crossing in Springrove cut in half a wagon on which Wesley Crumrine was riding. Crumrine was hurled violently from his seat and was injured in the head, but not seriously. The two horses ran away, as they were not hurt.

Latrobe.—Lawrence, youngest son of M. J. Hines, died in the Latrobe Hospital as the result of injuries he received a few hours before when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into the side of the road near the Beatty Inn. With three companions he was returning from Greensburg when the machine skidded and on into the bank. Hines' skull was fractured and Martin Adamcyak was severely lacerated, twelve stitches being required to close a gash in his face.

Harrisburg.—Approximately 5 per cent of samples of foods and drinks offered for sale in this state, obtained by agents of the department of agriculture in their annual spring inspection, were found to violate the pure food laws. More than 3000 samples were taken and 150 prosecutions have been ordered.

Pittsburgh.—George Henry, a policeman, arraigned in police court in connection with the theft of money from the home of Charles W. Young, was held for court under $1000 bail. Ethel Hall, a domestic in the Young residence, testified that she had given Henry between $500 and $600 in the past two years, some of which she said she had stolen from her employer's house. Henry denied he knew the money was stolen and said he had only borrowed it from the woman.

Uniontown.—Fayette county's crime wave somewhat subsided in May, according to the report of Coroner Baum, as only four murders and one suicide were reported. However, the number of deaths due to automobile accidents climbed to five and accidental drownings numbered two. There were two railroad and two mine accidents, which resulted fatally.

Greensburg.—A verdict for $2143.05 in favor of Arsenio Quagliarello, of Windber, was brought in by the jury in the suit in which he was the plaintiff and the American Express company defendant. Quagliarello claimed to have sent $1950 to his family in Italy, which his family never received. He was awarded that amount with full interest.

Mont Alto.—The annual conference of the state foresters is to be held at the State Academy here, August 8 to 10, and the graduation on August 4.

Greensburg.—Three masked bandits entered the home of Mrs. Edward Ross, aged 81, Rostraver township, and subjected her to brutal torture in an effort to compel her to reveal the hiding place of her money, the supposition being that the aged woman kept her savings in the house. Mrs. Ross refused to tell whether she had any money and screamed loudly, attracting the attention of her grandson. The intruders fled to the second floor of the house followed by Mr. Ross, who locked the robbers in a room they had entered. They managed to escape through a skylight.

Williamsport.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the State Association of Police Chiefs arrangements were made for the annual convention of the association in this city, August 2, 3, 4 and 5. Invitations will be sent to Governor Sprout and Lieutenant Governor Beideman and efforts will be made to obtain the presence of Vice President Coolidge.

Uniontown.—With 180 prisoners in the Fayette county jail, conditions have reverted back to the year of 1916 and 1917 when crime was rampant. So crowded has the county bastille become that more than 50 prisoners are compelled to sleep on cots in the bull pen. This is the first time this has happened in the history of the jail as the cells heretofore have afforded ample accommodation for the prisoners. Officials explain that the increase in the number of prisoners is due to the industrial depression as about 75 of the inmates of the prison have been committed on a charge of vagrancy and train riding. A special effort is being made to clean up the floating element said to be guilty of many of the robberies, especially those in the railroad yards.

Easton.—Mrs. Mary Hager, of this city, died in the Easton Hospital from injuries received when she was struck by an automobile on the William Penn highway while returning to her home. The automobile was driven by Mrs. James F. Halloran, of Bethlehem. Mrs. Hager's injuries consisted of a fractured nose, severe cuts of the face and head, and she suffered considerably from shock. She was 71 years old.

Uniontown.—At the first annual banquet of Fayette county Shriners, announcement was made that a caravan for Fayette county had been organized with the elevator of the following officers: Charles W. Bear, president; T. J. Davis, secretary, and Robert W. Arnett, treasurer.

Bethlehem.—With her husband in the hospital for surgical treatment, Mrs. Joseph Friedman and her five children had a thrilling experience when fire of unknown origin broke out in the apartments they occupied over a store on Mechanic street. Sleeping on the second and third floors, the children, after the mother gave the alarm, had difficulty in leaving the building, some of them jumping out of the windows. All escaped unharmed except a daughter, who was badly cut by glass. The prompt response of the firemen saved the building from destruction. The loss was more than $1500.

Reading.—In a collision between a line car, repairing wires, near Shanesville, three miles west of Boyertown, and a Reading-bound passenger trolley, the fronts of both cars were crushed and John F. Balliet, 45, of Reading, motorman on the trolley, had both legs cut off. He died later in a Reading hospital. Howard Griemer, the conductor, and five passengers, including two women, and the line car men escaped with a severe shaking up.

Harrisburg.—It is the duty of state boards of examiners of applicants for state certificates to practice various callings to determine moral fitness of candidates, and the fact of a conviction for conspiracy to defraud a client places the board upon notice, and it should carefully consider the matter, and insists upon satisfactory evidence of reformation before granting a license, declares Deputy Attorney General McNeas in his first opinion. It was given to M. I. Kast, secretary of the state board of examiners of architects, who made inquiry as to the powers of the board where questions of moral fitness are concerned. Mr. McNeas has also ruled to the satisfaction of the board that the requirements of the licensure act must be complied with, and the board has no authority to set them aside.

COUNTY TUBERCULAR HOSPITAL

Berks County has the honor of being the first county to act in taking advantage of the bill passed by the recent Pennsylvania legislature authorizing counties to establish hospitals for the treatment of persons afflicted with tuberculosis.

The measure was approved by Governor Sprout on Monday, May 23rd. On the following day the Reading Sanatorium for Treatment of Tuberculosis, the Berks county branch of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society, started circulating a petition to secure the signature of the one hundred voters required to set in motion a referendum. These names were quickly secured and the petition will be presented to the Berks commissioners this week. Under the new law the Berks commissioners will take steps to have printed on the ballot for next fall's election the question "Whether or not the county shall establish such hospital."

Should the vote be favorable it is provided that the county commissioners shall prepare plans for the hospital and select and purchase a site, all of which are to be approved by the State Commissioner of Health. The hospital shall be managed by a board of five trustees named by the court. The county commissioners, if necessary, can issue bonds for erecting the hospital and shall also levy an annual tax for maintenance. Compensation can be collected from patients able to pay but free treatment is provided.

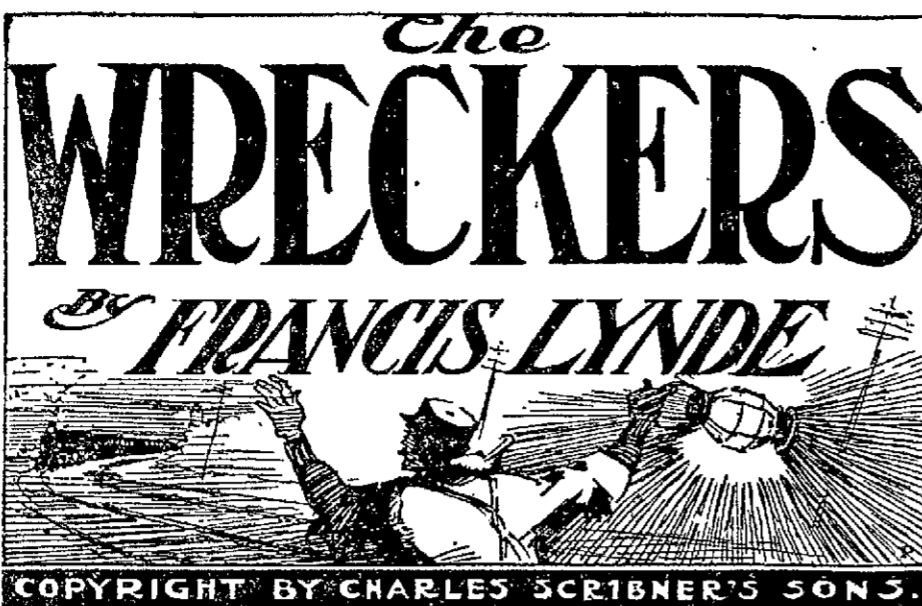

HOLLOW POTATOES

About 15 farmers purchased disease free seed potatoes at the recommendation of the County Agent totaling in all over 100 bushels. This seed last year gave an average increase over different lots of local seed in various counties of over 67 bushels per acre. It is expected to give a large increase in Bedford County and make possible greater profits from this crop. The potatoes purchased owe their superiority to the fact that they are of a high yielding variety Russets and also free from "leaf roll," "wilt" and other diseases causing small yields. Many of the planters found some of this seed to be hollow and are somewhat disappointed but the County Agent advises them to be at ease.

Hollow potatoes occur occasionally where growing conditions are exceptionally favorable in regard to soil fertility and rainfall. Hollow potatoes never are produced from seed having "leaf roll" and other degenerative diseases but more frequently where the seed is of unusually high vigor. There is little possibility of this seed producing hollow potatoes under average Bedford County conditions. It is encouraging however to note this sign of vigor in the seed which augurs well for high yields from them next fall.

Chapter IX

Late dinner at the club. And still he had me guessing.

The guess didn't have to wait long. While I was making a bluff at uncovering my typewriter and getting ready for business there was a heavy step in the hall, and a red-faced, portly gentleman with fat eyes and little-closed-cropped English side-whiskers came bulging in. He had a light top-coat on his arm, and his tan gloves were an exact match for his spats.

"Good evening," he said, nodding sort of truculently at the boss. "I'm looking for the general manager's office."

"You've found it," said the boss, crisply.

The tan-gloved gentleman looked first at me and then at Mr. Norcross.

"You are the chief clerk, perhaps?" he suggested, pitching the query in the general direction of the big desk.

"Hardly," was the curt rejoinder.

"My name is Norcross. What can I do for you?"

If I didn't hate slang so bad, I should say that the portly man looked as if he were going to throw a fit.

"Not—not Graham Norcross?" he stammered.

"Well, yes; I am 'Graham'—to my friends. Anything else?"

The portly gentleman subsided into a chair.

"There's some misunderstanding about this," he said, his voice thickening a little—with anger, I thought.

"My name is Dismuke, and I am the general manager of this railroad."

"I wouldn't dispute the name, but your title is away off," said Mr. Norcross, as cool as a handful of dry snow. "Who appointed you, if I may ask?"

"President Dunton and the board of directors, of course."

"The same authority appointed me, something like three months ago," was the calm reply. "So far as I know, I am still at the head of the company's staff in Port City."

The gentleman who had named himself Dismuke puffed out his cheeks and looked as if he were about to explode.

"This is a devil of a mess!" he rapped out. "I understood—we all understood in New York—that you had resigned!"

"Well, I haven't," retorted the boss shortly. And then he stuck the knife in good and deep and twisted it around.

"There is a commercial telegraph wire in the Hotel Bullard, where I suppose you will put up, Mr. Dismuke, and I'm sure you will find it entirely at your service. If you have anything further to say to me I hope it will keep until after this office opens in the morning. I am very busy, just now."

I mightily nearly gasped. This Dismuke was the new general manager, appointed, doubtless in all good faith, by the president and sent out to take charge of things. And here was the boss practically ordering him out of the office—telling him that his room was better than his company!

The portly man got out of his chair, pulling like a steam-engine.

"We'll see about this!" he threatened. "You've been here three months and you haven't done anything but muddle things until the stock of the company isn't worth much more than the paper it's printed on! If I can get a clear wire to New York, you'll have word from President Dunton to-morrow morning telling you where you got off!"

To this Mr. Norcross made no reply whatever, and the heavy-footed gentleman stumped out, saying things to himself that wouldn't look very well in print. When the hall door below gave a big slam to let us know that he was still going, the boss looked across at me with a sour grin wrinkling around his eyes.

"Now you know why I made Gorchor break all the rules of the service getting here, Jimmie," he said. "Possession is nine points of the law, and in this case it was rather important that Mr. Dismuke shouldn't find the outfit without a head and these offices of ours unoccupied." He rose, stretched his arms over his head like a tired boy, and reached for the golf cap he kept to wear when he went out to knock around in the shops and yard.

"Let's go up to the hotel and see if we can break into the cafe, Jimmie," he finished up. "Later on, we'll wire Mr. Chadwick; but that can wait. I haven't had a square meal in four days."

With everybody supposing he had resigned and left the country, I guess there were all kinds of a nine-minutes' wonder in Port City, and all along the Short Line, when the word went out that Mr. Norcross was back on the job and running it pretty much the same as if nothing had happened.

After supper, on the night of his return from the hide-out, he had sent a long code message to Mr. Chadwick, and a short one to President Dunton; and though I didn't see the reply to either, I guess Mr. Chadwick's answer, at least, was the right kind, because our track renewing campaign went into commission again with a slam, and all the reform policies took a sure-enough fresh start and began to hump themselves, with Juneman working the newspapers to a finish.

We heard nothing further from Mr. Dismuke, the portly gentleman in the tan spats, though he still stayed on at the Bullard. We saw him occasionally at meal times, and twice he was eating at the same table with Hatch and Henckel. That placed him all right for us, though I guess he didn't need much placing.

I wondered a little at first that Mr. Norcross didn't take the clue that Branderby, the Mountaineer reporter, had given us and tear loose on the gang that had trapped him. He didn't, or didn't seem to. From the first hour of the first day he was up to his neck pushing things for the new company formed for the purpose of putting Red Tower out of business, and he wouldn't take a minute's time for anything else.

Of course, it says itself that Hatch never made any more proposals about selling the Red Tower plants to the Citizens' Storage & Warehouse people after the boss got back. That move went into the discard in a hurry, and the Consolidation outfit was busy getting into its fighting clothes, and trying to chock the wheels of the C. S. & W. with all sorts of legal obstacles.

Franchise contracts with the railroad were flashed up, and injunctions were prayed for. Ripley waded in, and what little sleep he got for a week or two was in Pullman cars, snatched while he was rushing around and trying to keep his new clients, the C. S. & W. folks, out of jail for contempt of court. He did it. Little and quiet and smooth-spoken, he could put the legal leather into the biggest bullies the other side could hire. Luckily, we were an interstate corporation, and when the local courts proved crooked, Ripley would find some way to jerk the case out of them and put it up to some Federal judge.

Around home in Port City things were just simmering. Between two days, as you might say, and right soon after Mr. Norcross got back, we acquired a new chum on the headquarters force. He was a young fellow named Tarbell, who looked and talked and acted like a cow-punch just in from riding line. He was carried on Mr. Van Britt's payroll as an "extra" or "relief" telegraph operator; though we never heard of his being sent out to relieve anybody.

I sized this new young man up, right away, for a "special" of some sort, and the proof that I was right came one afternoon when Ripley dropped in and fell into a chair to fan himself with his straw hat like a man who had just put down a load that he had been carrying about a mile and a half farther than he had bargained to.

"Thank the Lord, the last of those injunction suits is off the docket," he said, drawing a long breath and wagging his neat little head at the boss.

"I'll say one thing for the Hatch people, Norcross; they're stubborn fighters."

"We'll beat 'em," predicted the boss. "They've got to let go. How about our C. S. & W. friends? Are they still game?"

"Fine!" asserted the lawyer. "The stock is over-subscribed everywhere, now, and C. S. & W. is a going concern."

"Your Title Is Away Off," said Mr. Norcross.

We saw him occasionally at meal times, and twice he was eating at the same table with Hatch and Henckel. That placed him all right for us, though I guess he didn't need much placing.

The building boom is on. I venture to say there are over two thousand mechanics at work at the different centers, rushing up the buildings for the new plants, at this moment. You ought to have a monument, Norcross. It's the most original scheme for breaking a monopoly that was ever devised."

The boss was looking out of the window sort of absently, chewing on his cigar, which had gone out.

"Ripley, I wonder what you'd say if I should tell you that the idea is not mine?" he said, after a little pause.

"Not yours?"

"No; it, or at least the germ of it, was given to me by a woman; a woman who knows no more about business details than you do about driving white elephants."

"I'd like to be made acquainted with the lady," said Ripley, with a tired little smile. "Such gems are too valuable to be wasted on mere lumber yards and fruit packeries and grain elevators and the like."

"You'll meet her some day," laughed the boss, with a sort of happy lilt in his voice that fairly made me sick—knowing what I did; and knowing that he didn't know it. Then he switched the subject abruptly: "About the other matter, Ripley: I know you've been pretty busy, but you've had Tarbell nearly a week. What have you found out?"

Ripley briefed the general situation as it stood on the night of the engine theft in a few terse sentences. Aside from the fight on Red Tower Consolidated, the new railroad policies were threatening to upset all the time-honored political traditions of the machine-governed state. An election was approaching, and the railroad vote and influence must be whipped into line. As the grafters viewed it, the threatened revolution was a one-man government, and if that man could be removed the danger would vanish.

The execution details had been turned over to Clanahan, the political boss of Port City.

The plot itself was simple. At a certain hour of a given night an anonymous letter was to be sent to Mr. Norcross, telling him that a gang of noted train robbers was stealing an engine from the Port City yard for the purpose of running down the line and wrecking the Fast Mail, which often carried a bullion express-car. If the boss should fall for it—as he did, when the time came—and go in person to stop the raid, he was to be overpowered and spirited away, a forged letter purporting to be a notice of his resignation was to be left for Mr. Van Britt, and a fake telegram, making the same announcement, was to be sent to President Dunton in New York. Nothing was left indefinite but the choosing of the night.

"I suppose Hatch was to give the word," said the boss, who had been listening soberly while the lawyer talked.

"That is the inference. Hatch probably gave the word after his talk with you, but the time was made even more propitious by the arrival of the two telegrams; the one from Mr. Chadwick and the one from Mr. Dunton, both of which they doubtless intercepted by means of the tapped wires."

Mr. Norcross looked up quickly.

"Ripley, did Dunton know what was going to be done to me?"

"Oh, I think not. It wasn't at all necessary that he should be taken in on it. He has been opposing your policies all along, and had just sent you a pretty savage call-down. He didn't want you in the first place, and he has been anxious to get rid of you ever since. The plotters knew very well what he would do if he should get a wire which purported to be your resignation. He would appoint another man, quick, and all they would have to do would be to make sure that you were well off stage, and would stay off until the other man could take hold."

"It worked out like a charm," admitted the boss, with a wry smile. "I haven't been talking much about the details, partly because I wanted to find out if this young fellow, Tarbell, was as good as the major's recommendation of him, and partly because I'm honestly ashamed, Ripley. Any man of my age and experience who would swallow bait, hook, and line as I did that night deserves to get all that is coming to him."

"You can tell me now, can't you?" queried the attorney.

"Oh, yes; you have it all—or practically all. I fell for the anonymous letter about the Mail hold-up, and while I don't 'rattle' very easily, ordinarily, that was one time when I lost my head, just for the moment. The obvious thing to do—if any attention whatever was to be paid to the anonymous warning—was to telephone the police and the round-house. I did neither because I thought it might be too slow."

"So you made a straight shoot for the scene of action?"

"I did; down the back streets and across the lower end of the plaza. As it appeared—or rather as it was made to appear—I was barely in time. There were men at the engine, and when I sprinted across the yard they were

Saffron Once Royal Color.

In Ireland saffron early became a royal color and, for a long period after such exclusiveness was taken away in Erin, the yellow saffron-dyed shirt remained a mark of social distinction in the Hebrides. In art saffron was much employed in medieval illuminated manuscripts. In combination with tin foil as a substitute for gold, and, of course, at all periods the coloring of many textiles was done with little crocus stigmas.

THOMAS BROOKS FLETCHER.

The "Jazz Queen" has no place in the artistic heart of W. D. Campbell, the authority on home decoration and personal dress who is to be heard on Chautauqua's fourth afternoon.

"Be a real, live, American girl," urges Mr. Campbell, who for fourteen years has been director of art in the city of Columbus. "Cut out the fads and fancies, forget the silly make-ups, be sensible, use simplicity."

"The 'painted beauty' who wants to be consistent should wear gaudy colors and dazzling jewelry. She must not allow her highly decorated face to exceed in brilliancy the apparel that is draped around her form."

The "debutante slouch," with her big ear puffs and her combination of fur muff and green, thin stockings with low-cut pumps, should not be imitated, according to Mr. Campbell. Nor does he stop with his censorship of the fair sex. He scores the young men who parade main street with queer derbies, unnecessary canes, conspicuous spats and freshman hair-cuts.

"But there is the 'sensible girl,'" sets forth Mr. Campbell. "Simplicity is her keynote. She realizes that true beauty lies in rhythm and in fitness for designated purposes. It is a case of vanity versus sanity."

Atmospheric Action.
The atmosphere of the earth acts very much in the same way as does the glass of a greenhouse—it allows the rays of the sun to pass through, but imprisons the heat. Thus it is cooler on the top of a mountain than at the sea level, because, though the mountain top is nearer the sun, the atmosphere is much less dense.

Safeguarding the Goat.
In Switzerland the goat is placed ahead of all other animals. If a boy plagues a goat he can be fined and sent to prison. If a person meets a goat on a path and drives him aside he can be arrested. If a goat enters the yard of a person not his owner, he must pay.

LOST-- OPPORTUNITIES

You probably realize that you have allowed many opportunities to slip by you in the course of a life time.

You know that many of these opportunities if seized at the right moment would perchance have made you independent for life. Others would at least have brought you lucrative return.

Yesterday can never be recalled. The opportunities passed are gone forever.

The money you have NOT made is like water over the falls.

Today You Must Think of the Golden Future Before You

You must think of the possibilities of the morrow. You must lay your foundation so that your future shall be secure beyond doubt.

The Continental Trust of Connecticut

under authorization of a declaration of trust, offers one of the biggest and soundest opportunities you have ever had laid before you.

It is no vain speculation or gambling chance.

It is not based on the future of any ONE branch of commerce or industry.

You do not place all your eggs in one basket.

Its holdings are and will be widely distributed among the fields of business, commerce and industry.

Its investment will be widely chosen by men of rare skill and experience in the fields of business and finance.

They will have better opportunity to study the most intimate details of every project before one dollar of the Continental Trust's money, your money, is placed with them.

May we not direct your attention to the personnel of this organization, and ask you if such men do not command your confidence, respect and trust.

It only takes a minute for you to act, and it will long remain one of the brightest moments, we are sure, of your career.

Merely write your name and address on the following coupon, and mail it to the address hereon, and you will feel, just as we feel that the Continental Trust means not only profits, but big profits to every person who participates with us in this model, if not fully loss proof method of investment.

Greatest Man.
Leonardo da Vinci is considered by several competent judges to have the strongest claim to the title of the greatest man in history. He was the outstanding genius in the golden age of genius, the age of Shakespeare, Luther, Erasmus, Cervantes, Michael Angelo, Titian and Raphael.

Curious Pottery.
The use of dried fruits of trees, such as the gourd and the coconut, for holding water and liquid substances is familiar, but it is not so generally known that cups, saucers and jars to take the place of ordinary earthenware were made in the Orient of a glutinous and plastic material entirely of vegetable origin, which is easily moulded.
